How it works

Your website is live in about two weeks. Text-back switches on once the phone carriers approve it — I handle that, and I start it the day we kick off. Your total time involved is roughly one hour.

1

DAY 1 · 30 MINUTES

Kickoff call

We talk through your services, your service area, how you like to schedule jobs, and what you want the site to say. I'll also collect a few business details the phone carriers require before they'll let your system send texts. Everything in one call, so I don't have to keep coming back to you.

> Same day, I submit your text-messaging registration to the carriers. This takes them 10–15 business days to approve — which is why we start it before anything else.

2

DAYS 2–8 · NOTHING NEEDED FROM YOU

I build it

I build your website, set up your booking calendar, wire up the missed-call text-back, and connect the follow-up emails and lead logging. I test the whole thing end to end before you ever see it.

3

DAYS 9–11 · 20 MINUTES

You review

I send you a preview link. You look it over, tell me what you'd like changed, and I make the edits. We keep going until you're happy with it.

4

DAY 12 · 10 MINUTES

Your website goes live

Your domain goes live, the booking calendar is connected, and your contact form starts capturing leads. I'll call you and we'll test it together — you'll watch a real lead come through start to finish.

5

USUALLY WITHIN A WEEK OF LAUNCH · 10 MINUTES

Missed-call text-back switches on

Once the carriers approve your registration, I connect the text-back to your phone line and we test it live. You'll call your own number, let it ring out, and watch the text arrive on the caller's phone.

> If your business number is a landline or internet phone line, the text comes from your real number. If it's a cell phone, carriers don't allow texting from it — so texts go out from a dedicated number that introduces your business by name. I'll tell you which applies on our first call.

What I need from you

All of this gets collected on the kickoff call. Have it handy and we'll be done in half an hour.

- → Your business details — legal name, phone, email, service area, and hours
- → Your services — what you offer and rough price ranges, if you share them
- → Photos of your work — before/afters, job sites, your crew. Phone photos are fine
- → Your logo — if you have one. If not, I'll work with what you've got
- → Reviews or testimonials — any you'd like on the site
- → Your calendar preferences — when you take estimates, how long they run, and how much notice you need
- → Your business phone number — so I can set up missed-call text-back on it
- → A domain name — tell me the name you want. If you already own one, just say so

For the carrier registration, I'll also need: your legal business name as registered, your EIN (tax ID), your business address, and a mobile number for the owner or an authorized person. The carriers require this to approve business texting — it's a one-time thing and I fill out the forms.

WHAT YOU'LL NEVER HAVE TO DO

- ✕ Create accounts or sign up for software
- ✕ Pay for tools, hosting, or subscriptions on top of your monthly fee
- ✕ Learn a new platform or log into a dashboard
- ✕ Manage renewals, updates, or technical settings
- ✕ Call support when something breaks — you call me

Two small exceptions: you'll sign one authorization form so the carriers can text-enable your line, and you'll flip on call forwarding at your phone provider. Both take about five minutes, and I'll be on the phone with you for them.

EVEN THOUGH I RUN IT

These stay yours.

- ✓ Your domain — registered in your name, in your business's name, from day one
- ✓ Every lead your system captures, in a spreadsheet you own and can open anytime
- ✓ Your website content, copy, and photos
- ✓ Your phone number and your customer relationships

---

I run the software so you don't have to — but you're never locked in. If you ever decide to leave, you keep your domain, your leads, and your site content, and I'll help you move.

You run the business. I run the system that keeps it full.

Questions about any of this? Just reach out — I'd rather answer it now than have you wondering.
